

NaCo – Chapter 1 Script Sample (Project Refresh/Update)

Copyright © Tasha Vong, 2022

All rights reserved.

Any redistribution, modifications, excerpts etc. without the creator's consent is prohibited.

Copyright © Tasha Vong, 2022

All rights reserved.

Old Chapter 1 Script

Edin is laying on his desk with the computer on, he has notes all over his desk they were finishing the paperwork for their previous case. Edin being in charge of all of the evidence and footage they've received; he was double checking thoroughly. The room was dark, he along with his teammates now had their own space within the same department. They still worked with Bo, even though Edin was hesitant to stay. They hear the main door open and hear footsteps approach them.

"Hey Ari." Tara greets from her desk; she is again eating some snacks and coffee. She was wrapping up sending emails. She gives a wave and a quick glance before tending to her computer.

"Hello Tara." Ari was holding her bag as she glanced around the department. She sets her bag beside Edin's desk, she looks over to him, seeing his hair fall on his forehead. "Where's Alex?"

"He's-"

"Right here." He says exiting the washroom. "Are you here to pick up Edin?"

"Yes..." She looks up, slightly biting her lip in uncertainty. "Hey, can I ask you guys something?" Alex sits on Tara's desk.

"From the tone of your voice, it sounds serious." Tara replies.

"Go ahead." Alex says.

"Edin was talking about the next case you guys had, obviously he didn't delve too much but he was mentioning A1 is related to the NaCo incident that happened a few months ago." Tara and Alex look at each other concerned. "Edin's friend, Sean, was involved. Seeing as how the A1 case was when I got kidnapped, I worry for his well being. Not to mention all of the brutal things that happened."

"I get what you mean Ari. But I assure you the case will be fine. We're trained professionals, don't you worry."

"That may be true Tara." Ari begins. "But even us professionals have a breaking point." She gently shakes Edin awake. He yawns, looking up and seeing Ari beside him.

"Ari... what are you doing here?" He mumbles as she smiles.

"I came to pick you up."

"I thought you were in a meeting."

"Was, but they cut it short." Edin looks over to see Tara and Alex aw-ing over them. "I thought I'd stop by and pick you up."

"That's really sweet Ari but-" Edin looks up and sees Tara's death glare. "What?"

"Before you say, 'I have work to do and totally don't have friends who are capable of doing my work.' I'd say go home and be with your wife." She says. Edin opens his mouth. "And no buts, ifs or ands, we are more than capable." He attempts to speak again. "And no, Edin we aren't going to slack off."

Copyright © Tasha Vong, 2022

All rights reserved.

Edin looks at Ari who shrugs.

“So?” Edin plops his head into her side.

“Yeah, let’s go home.”

(A/N: This was apart of an old plotline for NaCo. Instead of having a subdued introduction I have replaced it with this start, written below.)

New Chapter 1 Script

A bomb is shown strapped to the entrance of a building. "3, 2, 1... let it rip." Tara hits the detonate button and the entrance is blown to shreds.

Seeing through a sniper scope, Edin adjusts his zoom.

"Edin, you got a view on us?"

"Yes, the coast is clear." Alex and Tara make their way inside.

"Edin, we found the victim, but none of the culprits are in this place," Alex says.

"Understood. Have Tara do a look through before you guys leave."

"Not so fast." Edin hears a gun click right behind his head. He takes a side look before turning around. He gets up, seeing a guy and his posse with him. "You're interfering with a federal case; I ask you to leave." Edin raises a brow, he takes out his badge from his belt.

"Federal agent Edin Ky, may I ask what your authority is?"

"Harris Sylvus. Director for the LA branch. I don't believe we've met." Edin mentally sighs.

"Director?" He monologues.

"Not to defy, but I believe the three of us have this case under control. If assistance was needed, we would have requested it."

"And that's where you're wrong, Agent Ky. I've read about your many incidents. You're quite reckless, I'll say." Edin furrows his brows.

"Edin! Hello? Is the coast clear still? Tara is checking for bombs." Edin holds his hand up to his ear, turning around as he looks.

"Go on ahead." He states.

"Agent Ky, please do not make me have to use my authority on you. I know you and your team are more than capable of this case, but there has been a small change."

"Change?"

"Boino has been fired. I'm your new director." Edin gawks at him.

"What?"

"So, I ask you one more time, Agent Ky. Allow me to take over this case." His voice was stern and sharp. Normally, the Edin of the A1 case would oblige, but this time, he wasn't afraid.

Edin takes a side glance at the zip line that was still existent, it was set so Edin could easily make his way over after scoping the area. However, the last time he had used one he had shattered his calf bone.

"You cannot just overwrite what we know. What we've been doing." He lectures as he sees people begin to storm in.

He backs up, grapples it, and launches himself across to another building.

"Tara, Alex... we've got company." He says as he zips his way to the other side. Harris gasps in shock, immediately all the army personnel get ready to shoot. He holds his hand up.

"No. We'll deal with him later."

Edin makes his way off the zip line and climbs down a ladder to another roof.

"Edin, what is going on?" Tara asks on the intercom.

"Boino has been fired. Some guy named Harris Sylvus is now our new head of direction." He gets into the building through the top door.

"What? And what did he say?" Alex asks.

"Let him take the case." He busts in and gets to the middle of the building where there was a set of stairs.

"And?"

"I defied him." He heads down the stairs.

"Exactly what I would've done," Alex says.

Tara rips open a room, it was littered head to toe with explosives.

"Oh, shit... Alex, Edin we have a whole room packed with C4, we have to get out of here!" Edin manages to meet with them.

"Alex, you managed to hack the other doors?" Alex tosses his PDA at him.

"You bet."

"Okay, we have like 5 minutes lets go go go!" Tara shoos all of them. As they make their way towards the main exit, Sylvus's group bust in.

"What the-"

"Arrest them."

(A/N: And that's the end of the first half for Chapter 1. I do have a lot written for this series, so I'd like to save the good stuff for additional publication. If you do like my work and would like to collaborate, hire or send a message, you can do so at tashavongdev@gmail.com or any of my social medias linked at the bottom of my website page. Thank you for reading.)